

POLITICS ARE HOLDING FIRE

Waiting For Congress To Adjourn--For Housser's Trial--For Democratic Convention.

GOSSIP OF STATE INTEREST TOLD

Republicans Are Not Hasty In Their Endorsement Of The Different Candidates For Governor.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., June 21.—Development of the Wisconsin political situation hangs upon three forthcoming events—the arrival of Senator La Follette in this state after the adjournment of congress, the trial of Secretary of State Houser on the charge of attempted bribery preferred by Insurance Commissioner Host, and the democratic state convention in Milwaukee a week hence.

The Conference.

Prospects are that the democratic convention, or conference, as some of the leaders prefer to call it so as not to suggest a violation of the spirit of the primary election law, will be productive of only one candidate for governor, Ernest Merton of Waukesha, member of the state senate. Ex-senator and member of the cabinet, Colonel William F. Vilas of Madison, who has recently come out for the presidential nomination of W. J. Bryan, will be a prominent figure in the convention, having been placed at the head of the thirty men who comprise the delegation from Dane county. Leaders here assert that there will be something doing in the making of the suggested state ticket below the nominee for governor. It is said that Senator Merton has gone around the state and fixed up a slate of associates with himself on the proposed state ticket and that in doing so he has not consulted with some of the foremost leaders of the party, who controlled the last state convention.

Houser's Trial.

The trial of Secretary of State Houser will be held as soon as the attorneys can prepare his defense. It is not seriously believed in the capital city that he can be convicted on the same testimony which the prosecution found sufficient to get him held for trial for in the preliminary examination no defense was offered. It is said that the defense is even more anxious than the prosecution to bring as a witness "Bob" Luscombe, the agent of the Equitable who is charged with authorized Secretary of State Houser to offer to Insurance Commissioner Host a bribe of a gift of $2,000 to the republican campaign fund in exchange for a favorable decision in the Equitable surplus distribution case.

Would Be Sensational.
Friends of the secretary of state declare that the testimony of Luscombe would be sensational in the extreme and would show that Houser was not involved in the attempt to bribe, being merely the uninformed messenger of Luscombe, handing to the commissioner of insurance the proposed favorable decision. The defense is taking steps to have the trial at once, relying on the prospect of early acquittal. Should the trial end in grief for the accused secretary of state, he would assuredly discontinue his candidacy for a third term and be dropped from the slate of Senator La Follette, headed by Speaker L. L. Lemmon for governor. Strong pressure is being brought to bear to have Houser withdraw his candidacy even now, but he believes to do so would be a confession of wrongdoing, and insists upon waiting for the result of the trial.

Comes Back Home.

Senator La Follette will hasten to Wisconsin upon the adjournment of congress, but will not remain here long and will not take the stump for Speaker Lemmon. He will probably make a few Chautauqua speeches, but this state during the summer, but will not enter into an aggressive speaking campaign. In fact he will be out of the state most of the time between now and the primaries in September, having a long and closely dated list of engagements to lecture. It is by lecturing that he earns his living, saves some money to apply on the $50,000 purchase of a summer home which he made last December, and also lays up a store for future campaigns.

Already In.

Senator La Follette has already entered into the campaign, sending many letters to men of influence, assisted him in his three gubernatorial campaigns, and urging them to support Speaker Lemmon for governor, on the reasoning that the integrity of the reform organization in Wisconsin depends upon the nomination of Lemmon. The only reasons advanced against Governor Davidson, and it has not yet appeared that Governor La Follette is mentioning them in his letters, are that he is not the able and educated man required to carry forth the reform program inaugurated by La Follette, and that he is suspiciously acceptable to the conservative and corporation people who are not in sympathy with the La Follette movement. Just now, however, Governor Davidson is the strong favorite in the gubernatorial race, but Speaker Lemmon's friends say that he will grow prodigiously.

HER TESTIMONY MAY PUT A CALIFORNIAN IN PRISON CELL

Mrs. Anna Teubert of Janesville
Avers That Her Daughter Lulu

Was Born Feb. 22,

In the wreck of the coast steamer "Valencia" in a terrific gale off the Pacific coast about three months ago, Lulu and Mabel Rowlands, daughters of Mrs. Anna Teubert of this city were drowned. Mrs. Teubert did not learn of their fate until some time afterwards, while she was visiting with relatives in Nebraska. She returned to this city last Thursday and last evening a message came from Los Angeles asking the exact date of the birth of Lulu, the younger daughter.

Mrs. Teubert is the wife of Landlord Teubert, of Smith's hotel, near the Northwestern depot. She was married in 1887 to her first husband from whom she secured a divorce sixteen years ago. The two daughters, one born in 1888 and the other in 1889, were the only children. The former husband secured possession of them when they were but infants and since that time, with the exception of a single occasion when they were still very small, the mother had not seen them or known of their exact whereabouts.

Lulu Rowlands was born near Humboldt, Nebraska, February 22, 1888. This information was wanted in connection with an action in the courts against E. L. Hazard, son of a wealthy Californian, charged with a serious offense against the girl. The father is said to have made affidavit that she was of age when the offense was committed but the parties to the prosecution were unwilling to accept his evidence as final. Young Hazard was with the two girls on the steamer when the wreck occurred but escaped with his life. It is said that he wished to marry the young woman whom he is alleged to have wronged but that his father forbade

TO PREVENT ANARCHISTIC OUTRAGE AT CORONATION

Special Police From Several Countries Will Guard King Haakon And His Queen Tomorrow.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Trondhjem, June 21.—In anticipation of the crowning of King Haakon and his consort tomorrow, Norway's ancient capital presents an appearance of animation which is in striking contrast to the quiet that usually pervades the place. That the inhabitants are all agog in anticipation of the great event is not at all surprising when it is remembered that more than thirty years have elapsed since the placidity of the old town has been disturbed by a coronation, while the pages of history must be turned to a date many times more remote to find when the last of Norway's own kings was crowned.

Since their arrival here King Haakon and Queen Maud have remained in more or less seclusion at Stiftsgaarden. The most of their time has been spent in consultation with the court officials and others regarding the final arrangements for the coronation. When their majesties have appeared on the streets they have mingled freely with the townspeople and as a consequence nothing but words of praise are to be heard on all sides for the new king and queen and for the charming little Prince Olaf.

Their majesties have exchanged visits with the town officials and have also received the foreign princes and ambassadors, all of whom are now here for the coronation. In addition to the official deputations representing the countries of the world, and which in themselves make up a goodly number of persons, the city has filled with many visitors who have come merely to get a glimpse of the coronation ceremonies. Included among the arrivals are many American tourists. The authorities are taking the greatest precautions to guard against any anarchistic outrage, which the "red international" might be tempted to perpetrate on account of the many royalties now gathered here. In this work the local authorities have the assistance of secret police, who have been sent here by Germany, England, Denmark, and other countries.

The streets are decked out in gala attire for the coronation procession, while the final touch in the work of preparation has been finished at the cathedral, where the coronation ceremonies will begin at eleven o'clock tomorrow morning. The ceremony at the cathedral will be followed by a state dinner, which will be attended by three hundred guests.

Breaking Up Ships.
Norwegians have a primitive way of breaking up old, worn-out wooden ships. They take them to exposed rocky parts of the coast, and, after anchoring them, leave the breakers of the next storm to smash them to pieces. After the storm the floating fragments are picked up and sold for firewood.

CURIOUS CUSTOMS OF THE SAILORS

ENGLAND HAS SET THE PAGE FOR THE WORLD.

RIGHTS ARE NOT EXPLAINED

Traditions Of The Past As Shown By Uniforms Of British Officers.

Sailors And Marines.
Many quaint and curious customs are found by the inquisitive visitor to an English warship. These customs derive their greatest charm from the fact that they are a survival of olden days and events long since forgotten.

Use Of Buttons.
For instance, the visitor will see on the dark sleeves of many British officers a patch of lighter colored cloth with a row of three buttons. If the visitor is so curious as to ask what rank that sign indicates, his host will tell him that it is not indicative of rank but is a survival of the time when "My Lords of the British Admiralty" found it necessary to curb the young midshipman's tendency to use his sleeve as an impromptu handkerchief. Hence the three buttons.

The Chevron.
Chevrons worn on the sleeve of petty officers survive from feudal usages. Chevron is the French word for "rattler," and the chevron worn on the sleeve was put there to show the wearer belonged to the house of the lord whose heraldic emblems were displayed underneath the chevrons. For a long time the United States army wore their chevrons pointing down. Considering the origin of the custom of wearing chevrons, this was wrong, and when it was called to the attention of the war department, the custom was immediately changed so that now army chevrons point upward as do the rattlers in any well behaved house.

On The Port Side.
The visitor will observe that in the British navy the officers leave and enter their ship by means of the port or left gangway instead of the overboard gangway which is on the right side looking toward the bow. This custom also prevailed in the British navy until the great mutiny at Nore in 1750 when the crews of the vessels in the mutiny sent the officers over the port gangway as a mark of disrespect and set them down on the beach. When the mutiny was suppressed the officers came back into their ships over the port gangway and have ever since used that as the most honorable entrance to the ship.

The Time.
Time is counted on shipboard by bells. The day is divided into six periods of four hours each. The periods or watches commence at noon, four p. m., eight p. m., midnight, four a. m., eight a. m. At twelve, thirty p. m. the ship's bell strikes once. Two bells announce one o'clock, three, half past one, and four two p. m. This goes on until noon. At half past four it begins again with one tap on the bell. This custom is followed in all navies except the British, which instead of striking four bells at six o'clock strikes only once. This also is in memory of a mutiny.

Brave Marine.
The legend is still told in the British navy of a great British fleet lying at anchor in a British port crowded with mutinous men who had pledged each other to arise and overpower their officers when the last strike of four bells in the second dog watch (six p. m.) were dying away in echoes. With his hand poised to strike the bell four times, the marine whose duty it was to keep the time, first learned of the mutiny. His captain and the admiral of the fleet were both absent. If he struck the full measure the mutineers would be on him before help could reach him. To confuse them and gain time, the marine struck the bell but once, and for some time the mutineers supposed it to be only half past four o'clock. Their first intimation that their plot had been discovered was when the soldiers appeared among them and arrested their ringleaders.

Three White Stripes.
Still another curious fact for the visitor to remember will be that the three white stripes around the wide collar of the blue jacket was originally placed there to commemorate Lord Nelson's three greatest victories, the Nile, Copenhagen and Trafalgar. Not knowing what they represented at that time the French and Spanish navies also adopted the idea and to this day the three white stripes run around the collars of French and Spanish blue jackets, commemorating their own defeat at Trafalgar.

Another Fact.
Another interesting fact to observe will be that while every other officer goes down the gangway facing down, the major of marines always backs down with elaborate care, as if he were leaving the presence of his sovereign. Those who are puzzled by this fact will find sufficient explanation when they look down at his feet where long spurs project, making descent if not distinctly hazardous, at least exceedingly uncomfortable. The major of marines is the only officer in the British navy, or probably any other navy, who has the honor of wearing spurs.

HERPICIDE'S MISSION.

It Takes Away The Dread Of Birthdays.

Nothing is more annoying to men and women of middle age than to see those unmistakable signs of age—thin hair and grayness—approaching. But science has discovered that these conditions are no longer unmistakable evidences of old age, for the dandruff germ theory proves that even very young people may suffer hair loss, while those fortunate enough to escape the ravages of the scalp germ, retain their abundant locks to a ripe old age. Newbro's Herpicide kills the dandruff germ and removes the risk of appearing old before your time. Save your hair and your feelings, by using the genuine Herpicide. Sold by leading druggists. INDIANS DYNAMITING IN THEIR PRESERVES

Local Members of Ke-No-She-A Club Are Greatly Concerned Over Depredations in Forest County.

On a trip through the northern section of the state, from which he returned last evening, State Veterinarian E. D. Roberts made an investigation of reports that the Indians had been dynamiting trout streams and committing other depredations on land in the vicinity of 68 acres of land, located about 38 miles from Antigo between Lakes Crane and Ke-No-She-A in Forest county, which are owned by the Ke-No-She-A Hunting and Fishing club of Janesville. He found that the reports had been exaggerated; that the red men had recently disposed of enough trout to feed several hundred people at a big fish dinner at which their principal spoils constituted the principal viand. They have also been shooting deer out of season. Inasmuch as the club has been stocking the stream with trout for some years past, the members are greatly concerned over the wholesale destruction of the fish. The attention of Governor Davidson, who is a member of the club, has already been called to the matter. Janesville men belonging to the club are: City Marshal William H. Appleby, E. A. Kemmerer, Sanford Soverhill, Dr. J. W. St. John, Postmaster Charles L. Valen, Edward Parker, Philo Thomas, C. W. Schwartz, F. C. Burpee, H. G. Carter, City Treasurer James A. Fathens, and State Veterinarian Roberts. The camp consists of two large log houses, a stable, and an ice house, and a man is kept there the year round to look after the property.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure, with local treatment, they have ruined the health of many sufferers. In fact, it is a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by J. C. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful, and cures the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address: J. C. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, price 75c. Take Hall's Family Pill for constipation.

A Beautiful Picture Book for the Asking.

While the college is one of great usefulness, it is a fact that many of our citizens know little or nothing about it. To better acquaint those it serves with what it is doing, the college has issued an attractive picture book, giving some thirty views of the college grounds, buildings, laboratories, farm animals, etc. Every reader who wishes a copy of this beautiful picture book, should send a request on postal card addressed to W. SPRING BROOK NEWS OF INTEREST

Spring Brook is in need of a good boarding house. There are a large number of men in the employ of the various factories who would rather stay down there than take the car up town every evening after work and come down again in the morning. It is only a matter of time when such a building will have to be built and the sooner the better for the community.

John Maxwell who is working in Fort Atkinson, spent Sunday at his home on Eastern avenue.

George Kelley spent yesterday in Chicago.

A couple of men were looking over the land in Spring Brook a few days ago, but did not state what they wanted to use the land for. It is thought that they were factory men, who were looking for a site.

The employees of the Hough Shado Corporation took a vacation last Friday to see the parade and circus.

Mrs. Miller of Davenport, Iowa, who has been visiting W. M. Smith for a few days, has returned to her home.

The canning factory has received a large shipment of cans which will be used during the coming season. There must be at least seven or eight cars.

The Spring Brook Whirlwinds defeated the Knapp's Brewery team by a score of 11 to 7. It was a closely contested game from start to finish. This adds another to the list of winning games that have been played this season, and as yet are to lose their first game.

J. L. Cronin, who has been taking a trip in the East, returned last week.

James Sheridan has returned from his trip to New York and other eastern places.

Mrs. E. Boumont and her daughter, Grace, spent Sunday with friends in Milton Junction.

PARTIES AND THE REPUBLIC.

Hon. Leslie M. Shaw, Secretary of the Treasury, recently delivered an address before the Missouri League of Republican clubs. In speaking of parties and party organization, he said:

"Political parties are indispensable to republics. Formulated political principles believed in, well defined and clearly expressed political policies adhered to, are essential to the perpetuity and progress of the nation. Prominent if not paramount among the political evils which confront us I count the trend toward the obliteration of party lines.

"The fatal weakness of our political opponents is their incoherency. They believe nothing; they teach nothing; they have no plans, no policies, no purposes. Enough of them believe in Free-Trade so that their platform in 1892 and again in 1904 specifically declared that Protection is robbery of the many for the enrichment of the few, but a sufficient number believe in Protection, so that the Wilson-Gorman law, enacted by a Congress elected upon an out-and-out Free-Trade platform, provided ample Protection for the iron and steel industry, citrus fruits and for a score of other articles. The law as a whole was as incoherent as the party that enacted it. It was open Free-Trade here and Protection there. The pledge of the platform was kept as respects many industries which were ruined in an hour, and when some industries are ruined no amount of Protection will save others.

"A tariff law to be successful must be coherent. It must protect, if you please, as does the Dingley Tariff law, the man who grows barley, and it must then protect with a higher duty the one who makes malt from barley, and with a yet higher duty him who makes beer from malt, with another increase of duty when bottled. A Tariff law that is not built upon principle is a legislative failure, and a party composed of men who do not believe in the principles set forth in their platform is a political failure. It may be occasionally successful at the polls. It may elect its ticket once in a while. It may now and then dominate Congress. It may at long intervals place its standard bearer in the White House, but it can never successfully manage the affairs of the nation. Political principles are everything. Men are nothing.

"The leaders of all political parties are honest, patriotic and high minded. The Democratic party, the Prohibition party, the Socialist party are each dominated by honorable men.

"Then he wants to say that a party without organization, is as helpless as a church without a creed. Mr. Shaw recognizes the fact that the tendency of the times is toward party disintegration, and that the doctrine of independence is being freely disseminated.

The independent voter, the man who knows no party allegiance, is lauded to the skies, because he votes for men, rather than measures or principles.

The primary law, now in force in Wisconsin encourages this sort of looseness, and is open to severe criticism on this account. Party organization is as necessary to the life and perpetuity of a republic as is organization to the life of any corporate interests.

The business interests of a church are placed in the hands of an official, and responsibility intelligently met by these representatives. Corporations, large and small, delegate to a few men the power to act, and hold them responsible for results.

Political parties have always pursued the same common sense policy until the primary law craze came along, when men discovered all at once that independence had been sacrificed to party organization.

About one dose of the law will satisfy its most ardent admirers and when the people come to their senses the law will be amended beyond recognition.

The democratic party managed to go on the rocks in spite of organization, but when it landed in the lap of Bryanism it discovered that its successor was thoroughly equipped with the new party lines well in hand.

The primary law is not a democratic measure, but is one of the fads for which republicanism is noted. The party has outlined a number of reform spasms of this class and it possesses enough vitality to survive the shock of a primary law.

The Fire and Police Commission of the city are to meet on Monday afternoon to hear both sides of the sad happening last week where a prisoner is alleged to have been beaten inhumanly by a police officer. Every story has two sides. Mr. Eunsen's has been told now wait until officer Bear's is heard before passing judgment.

DIRECT VOTE IS DEFEATED

POPULAR ELECTION OF SENATORS IS LOST.

Coupled with Proposition to Extend Terms of Representatives Bill Is Negatived in House.

Washington, June 21.—Mr. Norris, of Nebraska, led a losing fight Wednesday in the house on the joint resolution amending the constitution of the United States providing for the election and term of office of members of congress. The first section of the resolution provided for the election of senators by the direct vote of the people, the second extending the terms of representatives to four years.

Mr. Rucker (Mo.) said that while there was a vast sentiment for the election of senators by a direct vote of the people, there was no public sentiment whatever for the second proposition. He requested that the house be permitted to vote separately on the two sections, but objection was made to the division of the bill.

Mr. Norris, in support of the resolution, said that a longer term of service than two years was required in the house if a member expects to have any voice in the actual solving of national legislative problems or in the shaping of the government's policies.

Messrs. D. Armond and Tyndall, of Missouri, were pronounced in their opposition to the measure, Mr. Tyndall insisting that the lower house of congress was not "cleaned out" often enough.

Democrats and Republicans were mixed up when the vote was taken the resolution being defeated by a vote of 89 to 86, two-thirds not having voted in its favor.

SENATE IS FOR LOCK CANAL

President Successful in Overcoming Advocates of Sea Level Waterway Across Panama.

Washington, June 21.—As a result of the active intervention of the president the senate will vote to adopt the lock type of canal across the isthmus of Panama.

The last few weeks have seen a radical change in the sentiment of the senate on the canal question. The committee on interoceanic canals split on the question, the majority, led by Senator Kittridge, of South Dakota, reporting strongly for the construction of a sea level waterway. The minority, headed by the chairman of the committee, Senator Millard, of Nebraska, advocated the lock type of canal as had been recommended vigorously by President Roosevelt.

It was determined by the administration not to press the canal question during the present session, it being represented that if no action were taken the president could proceed with the construction of a lock canal as contemplated by the original Spooner act. House leaders reported to the president, however, that the sentiment in the lower branch of congress was overwhelmingly favorable to the lock type. Some days ago Secretary Taft went to the capitol and saw Speaker Cannon and members of the house, and as a result of the conference it was decided to incorporate a provision in the sundry civil bill authorizing the construction of a lock canal.

The bill compels common carriers engaged in interstate commerce to check baggage to its destination on transportation offered, whether in the form of what is known as "split tickets" or a regular form of ticket on one line and a mileage or other ticket on another line, to the destination of the baggage.

Timlin On Wealth Limitation.

Superior Telegram: Judge Timlin's recently expressed opinions about limitations of wealth are being quoted and commented on all over the United States. The fact that Judge Timlin has been elected to the supreme bench of this state gives especial weight to his views. The words especially commented upon are as follows: "One of the first things that we must give up is the notion that an individual or a corporation has the right to get, hold or own as much money or property as the country as he or it can acquire. There should be a limitation written into the constitution of the United States, where the forces of repel which are sure to arise can not easily reach it, providing the maximum amount of money and property which can be held by any one person, natural or artificial."

Senator Helburn, who has been ill for about a month, returned to his duties in the senate.

What Lunar Athletes Could Do.

The "man in the moon" must surely regard with amused contempt our much-vaunted athletic records. A good terrestrial athlete could cover about 120 feet on the moon in a running broad jump, while leaping over a barn would be a very commonplace feat. He would find no difficulty in carrying six times as much and running six times as fast as he could on earth, all because the moon attracts bodies with only one-sixth of the force of the earth.—Sunfield (Mass) Republican.

WERE WEDDED LAST EVENING AT EIGHT

Miss Edna Stout Was Bride of Burr Robbins of Baraboo—Rev. Denison Performed Ceremony.

At the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Stout, 206 South High street, Miss Edna Mabel Stout and Burr Robbins of Baraboo were married last evening, at eight o'clock. The ring ceremony was pronounced by Rev. R. C. Denison, as the happy couple stood in the parlor beneath a bell of daisies and foliage. The bride's gown was of French pearl over white silk and she carried white roses. The wedding march was played by Miss Camilla Thiele. The room was very prettily decorated in green and white. The wedding feast was served in the dining room and back parlors. The former was beautified in red and green and in the latter the decorations were of pink and white.

Among the guests from out of the city were Mrs. J. Ewing, Miss Gladys Robbins, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Ewing, Mr. and Mrs. John Houston, Mrs. Harry Butterfield, Harry, Butterfield, Jr., all of Baraboo.

Mr. and Mrs. Robbins departed on their honeymoon for Milwaukee. From there they will go to Baraboo, Minneapolis, Winona and other places in Minnesota. Early next week, Mrs. J. Ewing, mother of the groom, will be hostess at a reception and dinner in honor of the young couple. Mr. and Mrs. Robbins will make their future home in Baraboo. They were the recipients of many handsome presents, many of which could not be brought here from Baraboo where the donors reside. The best wishes of a host of friends here go with the young people.

The remains will be brought to this city Saturday and taken direct to the Mt. Zion cemetery where interment will be made in the family lot. Mrs. Mout was born in Hoswick, Sandwick parish, Scotland, August 14, 1814. With her husband and family she settled in Rock county July 4, 1855. Two daughters, Marian and Emily, and her husband preceded her to the other world. Four sons and four daughters survive. They are: Lawrence, Thomas, John, Margaret, and Elizabeth Mout of Chicago; Jessie Mout of Minneapolis; Mrs. H. Harper of Magnolia; and Peter J. Mout, of Janesville.

Joseph G. Fox. Joseph G. Fox, an old resident of the town of Oregon and father of Dr. George Fox of this city, died Monday morning at the home of his son, John H. Fox, in that locality. Deceased was born in Westmeath county, Ireland, April 12, 1822, and came to America in 1834. He settled on a farm in Oregon in 1844. He was an old line democrat and was prominent in politics for many years. During the years 1851-2 he served as register of deeds for his county. His first wife, Mary Labor Fox, died August 20, 1850, and his second wife, Harriet Adamson Fox, passed away some years ago. Three children survive: Dr. George H. Fox of Janesville, John H. Fox of Oregon, and Mrs. Elmer Kistler.

Mrs. Emma Schaller. All that is mortal of the late Mrs. Emma Schaller was tenderly laid at rest in Oak Hill cemetery this afternoon. The funeral services were held from the home at 204 Linn street at two o'clock and from St. Paul's German Lutheran church half an hour later. The pall bearers were four sons of the deceased, a son-in-law and a nephew—George, Charles, Albert, and Fred Schaller, John Koerner and John Gaultier.

General Notes. In July, when the Shoshone Indian Reservation lands are to be opened for settlement, the Union Pacific will run a line of automobiles from Ravins, Wyo., its nearest station. The line is 100 miles long.

The State Railroad Commission of Texas, on May 30th issued an order directing the Houston & Texas Central to reduce its passenger fares to the basis of 2.5 cents a mile. It is said that the road will take all legal means to resist the enforcement of the order. A reduction on this line would force reductions on a number of others.

The Kentucky state railway commission has sustained the contention of shippers in all sections of the state that they have been discriminated against, and that the entire state has suffered. Taking the Louisville & Nashville company as a basis, the commission orders a reduction of its mileage scale by 25 per cent on all classes of freight on the main stem, the Knoxville division and the Cumberland Valley division in order to bring the rate to that in effect in the Kentucky Central and Lexington divisions. All of the other roads in the state are brought down to this basis.

Albert Roath, passenger conductor between Worcester, Mass., and Norwich, Conn., on the Norwich & Worcester division of the New York, New Haven & Hartford, has completed 50 years of service in that position on the same road, and his service with the company began eight years earlier, when, as a farmer-boy, he helped clear up the wreck of a freight train and concluded that he would like to go into that kind of business. Mr. Roath is only 73 years old and is erect and clear-eyed. He has never had an accident to speak of.

STATE VETERINARIAN PROMISES SENSATION FOR UPPER MICHIGAN

Dr. E. D. Roberts Left For Lake Mills Today to Investigate Report that Menominee Millionaire Shipped Infected Cattle Into State Contrary to Law.

State Veterinarian E. D. Roberts left for Lake Mills early this morning for the purpose of quarantining two carloads of Holstein-Friesian cattle alleged to have been shipped into this state from the city of Menominee, Mich., just across the north Wisconsin boundary line, without the inspection required by law. The cattle were originally owned by W. Spencer, Carpenter, a Menominee millionaire who recently decided to abandon dairying on his beautiful farm near that city and sold his entire herd of eighty cows. Advices received from that locality were to the effect that prior to the sale a veterinarian examined the cattle at Mr. Carpenter's direction and found that something like 75 per cent of the animals were infected. Sixty of these cows reached Lake Mills yesterday. They were consigned to William Everson.

NEW MONARCH WINS SUBJECTS' HEARTS

NORWEGIANS ARE INFATUATED WITH KING HAAKON VII.

CROWN PRINCE IS POPULAR

Prediction Made That Baby Olaf Will Be Favorite Monarch When He Finally Reaches Place on Throne.

Trondheim, June 21.—The arrival and reception of the special embassies from Great Britain and France, headed by the prince of Wales and Admiral Boylston respectively, gave the crowds pleasing spectacles of royal pageantry. Besides the salutes of the arriving warships and the responses to them, there was an extended exchange of international courtesies and from morn until night guns boomed in the harbor.

The only public appearance Wednesday of the royal family of Norway was when they went to greet the prince and princess of Wales, which was made the occasion of a patriotic demonstration. The baby crown prince has taken a wonderful hold on the hearts of the Norwegian people, and if he retains his place in their affections through the years, he will be one of the world's most popular monarchs when he finally comes to the throne.

The fleet in the harbor is rapidly growing and presents a gala appearance, the vessels being draped with gay bunting.

The American embassy, headed by Charles F. Graves, minister to Sweden, is established in a handsome private residence, over which flies an enormous American flag.

Swedes Are Ignored.

The absence of Swedish representation attracts little attention. A few resident Swedes display their flag, but the official arrangements ignore Sweden because of King Oscar's refusal to participate. The Swedish minister at Christiania finds it convenient to have urgent private business requiring his presence at home. However, the incident seemingly is proving not at all disturbing.

The event of Wednesday in connection with the preparations for the coronation of King Haakon VII. and Queen Maud was the arrival of the prince and princess of Wales, and their children, on board the British royal yacht Victoria and Albert, conveyed by the British second-class cruisers Juno and Talbot.

The British vessels entered the harbor at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon, the Juno and Talbot firing a salute to which the Norwegian cruisers and shore batteries replied. For half an hour the sound of guns reached for miles along the fjord. The Victoria and Albert had anchored in the harbor before King Haakon, Queen Maud and Crown Prince Olaf boarded a launch and steamed out to meet their relatives, the representatives of the British nation. The close kinship of the king and queen of Norway to the prince of Wales made the meeting particularly sympathetic. The prince of Wales embraced his sister and warmly greeted his brother-in-law, and took the little crown prince Olaf in his arms. Later the members of the two suites were presented to each other.

Ovation to Royalty.

The royal party remained on the Victoria and Albert until six o'clock, when they returned to the landing, where they awaited the coming of the prince and princess of Wales.

The departure of the king and queen and the prince and princess of Wales from the British royal yacht was the signal for another series of salutes. A great throng surrounded the landing and gave King Haakon an ovation.

When the prince and princess of Wales arrived at the landing King Haakon took the arm of the prince of Wales and marched with him up the landing and along the front of the guard of honor, the band playing the British national anthem and the crowd cheering enthusiastically.

Queen Maud and the princess of Wales and their children, entered a carriage together, King Haakon and the prince of Wales in another. The British minister and the members of the suites and aides followed, and the party drove to the palace through crowded streets. The crowd was especially demonstrative because of the relationship of the prince of Wales to Queen Maud.

THE MAKING OF A JUROR.

Puzzled German Gives the Judge a Chance to Get Even with Lawyers.

The judge had his patience sorely tried by lawyers who wished to talk and by men who tried to evade jury service. Between hypothetical questions and excuses it seemed as if they never would get to the actual trial of the case, relates the Green Bag. So when the puzzled little German who had been accepted by both sides jumped up the judge was exasperated.

"Shudge!" cried the German.

"What is it?" demanded the judge.

"I think I like to go home to my wife," said the German.

"You can't," retorted the judge. "Sit down."

"But shudge," persisted the German. "I don't think I make a good shudge."

"You're the best in the box," said the judge. "Sit down."

"What box?" said the German.

"Jury box," said the judge.

"Oh, I thought it was a bad box that people gets in sometimes."

"No," said the judge, "the bad box is the prisoner's box."

"But shudge," persisted the little German. "I don't speak good English."

"You don't have to speak any at all," said the judge. "Sit down."

The little German pointed at the lawyers to make his last desperate plea.

"Shudge," he said, "I can't make nothings of what these fellows say."

It was the judge's chance to get even for many annoyances.

"Neither can anyone else," he said. "Sit down."

With a sigh the little German sat down.

APOSTLE'S FATHER REACHES CHICAGO

SIRE OF FOUNDER OF ZION TO REFUTE TESTIMONY.

TO CLEAR DEAD WIFE'S NAME

Holds Proofs of Birth of John Alexander Dowie and Will Go on Stand to Prove His Claims.

Chicago, June 21.—Disowned by his son, John Murray Dowie, father of John Alexander, the "First Apostle," arrived in Chicago Wednesday evening alone, having left the seclusion of his cottage in the village of Essex, Ia., to refute the assertions of his son and clear the name of his dead wife.

The appearance of the old man in Chicago was far different from that of his son when traveling. Instead of a private car or special train he stepped from a Pullman coach, carrying two antique valises, which held the proofs of the birth of John Alexander and the old man's modest laundry.

The 21 years' difference between the ages of the father and son have been lost in the lines of the old man's face, and he looks as like the son as if they were twin brothers. The bald head, patriarchal beard, tall hat, and even the voice and smile are the same.

Looks Like Son.

"You will need no papers to prove that you are the father of the 'First Apostle,'" said Deacon Piper, who met him at the station and escorted him to his room at the Great Northern hotel. "All that you need to do is to step into the courtroom and the judge will recognize you."

The veteran's gentle smile, his resemblance to his son, and his touching confidence in all those whom he met soon won friends for him, and a crowd followed him from the train to the street. Here he crowded and elbowed his way through the line of shouting "cabbies" and stood in Adams street awaiting a car.

"I am in your hands," he said, turning to Deacon Piper.

No Welcome from Apostle.

But he will receive no welcome from his son. John Alexander Dowie has testified that the old man is not his father, and he will not recognize him as such. The old man will not force himself upon the "apostle" and they will meet for the first time in five years in Judge Landis' court this morning.

"I have two sons. They are, John Alexander, the mortal, and Andrew, who lives in Australia and is the finest salesman in the country," said the old man proudly. "You see, I say, John Alexander the mortal. That shows what I think of his claims to immortality and noble birth. I don't believe that there are many others who take much stock in them."

Then he began to tell of his early life and of the time before John Alexander conceived the idea of being a prophet.

Born in Scotland.

"I was born in Alloa, Scotland, just 80 years ago, a wee bit nearer to the castle of Stirling than Andrew Carnegie was," he said. "John Alexander was born there, too. His mother's name was Ann McFarlane. John was 13 years old when I took him with his brother to Australia. I was a justice of the peace until I became a citizen of the United States."

A glass of cold water, which was then handed to him, reminded him that he had been a total abstainer all his life. "Never touched a thing but pure water," he said.

When Too Late.

About the time a man is ready to die from his transgressions he begins to understand the wisdom summed up in the proverb: "Be good and you'll be happy."

Once Enough.

A boy of 14 who fell from the gallery in an English music hall and was uninjured, said, when taken before the manager: "Please, sir, I'm sorry; I won't do it again."

Down Fine.

Lecturing before a London audience on the importance of house cleaning, an English scientist asserted that as much dust as can be placed on a pin point yields no fewer than 3,000 colonies of living germs. The majority of these germs are representative of disease.

Sandwich Under Any Other Name Easier for the Waiter to Spell.

A busy man hastened into one of the quick-unch "cafes" that are popular in a portion of the city, and after smiling at the blonde whose duty it is to ring up fares on the cash register, called to the colored waiter:

"Bring me a sandwich and a glass of milk, and be quick about it."

The son of Sam boiled away and quickly returned with the desired food and drink.

"Give me my check, quick. I am in a hurry."

The waiter pulled out a pad of paper and a pencil and began to scrawl several weird hieroglyphics on the paper. In response to the sharp, "Come, hurry up," the waiter made a final desperate attempt and handed the man a check on which was written, "One piece pie, one milk."

"Here," said the guest as he deciphered the characters on the slip of paper, "I didn't order any pie."

"I know dat, boss," responded the abashed waiter, "but pie and sandwich costs jes' de same, and I can't spell sandwich."

And the blonde cashier smiled sweetly as she invited the man to call again.

And the Swing Stopped.

"Come in, Waldonia," said her mother. "You have been in that swing long enough."

"Presently, mamma," answered the little Boston girl. "I am permitting the canting quadruped of the genus Felis to slacken his physical activities and pass by imperceptible gradations into a condition of total extinct vitality."—Chicago Tribune.

The Modern Test.

"I hear you are getting a good thing in marrying Old Cashmaker's daughter."

"Yes, I judge the old man is pretty well fixed."

"You've looked him up in Bradstreet's, have you?"

"No, not yet, but he's been in two investigations where the books couldn't show where the money went."—Detroit Free Press.

Coffee Drinkers—Versus—Beer Drinkers

Thousands of men and women ruin their health by habitual coffee drinking. Coffee produces indigestion, biliousness and insomnia, because (being an astringent) it dries up the peptic glands and strains the nerves.

Whereas medical authorities declare a fully matured barley malt beer if properly brewed and flavored with the tonic juice of fine Bohemian hops like is one of the most wholesome and nourishing drinks in the world. It builds up bone and brain, gives energy to the mind and brings the red glow of health to the cheek. It contains only 3 1/2 per cent of alcohol. Hence it is truly a temperance beverage. Dr. Josiah Zeisler of Northwestern University of Chicago, says: "I fully believe that the moderate use of a good beer at meal times acts as a tonic, and is therefore useful to adult persons." Peerless is sold everywhere, but bottled at the brewery only where it has been brewed for over fifty years by the celebrated "Gund natural process."

Rising Young Players

Matthew Fitzgerald and Henry Mathewson, a Likely New New York National Battery—Their Careers to Date—Catcher Thomas.

The New York National league club has, upon recommendation of ex-Pitcher Frank Killen, signed for trying out a young catcher named Matthew Fitzgerald, a native of Albany, N. Y.

Fitzgerald is twenty-two years old, stands five feet ten inches in his base-ball shoes and weighs 185 pounds. He is a temperate young man, of excellent habits and good education. Recently he was married to an Albany girl.

He first attracted attention as a member of the Catholic Union team of Albany. He caught in brilliant fashion last season for the Sharon (Pa.) team, which was managed by Killen.

Hugh Duffy made him a Philadelphia offer, which he declined. Killen thinks that Fitzgerald will develop into one of the best batting and base running catchers in the National league. He is very fast getting down to first base, and because of this Killen instructed him to bat left handed.

Sharon played only the best semi-professional teams, and Fitzgerald's average is therefore indicative of real ability. He is said to possess a fine throwing arm, and, above all, he has a head and can keep it during a game.

Ira Thomas, the rising young catcher of the New York American league club, was born in Ballston Spa, N. Y., Jan. 22, 1881. In his youth he moved to Collinsville, N. Y., where he still makes his winter home, and played with independent clubs at both places.

He first played professionally in 1903 with the Hartford club of the Connecticut league. Toward fall he was sold to the Newark Eastern league club and finished the season there.

In the spring of 1903 he refused to accept Newark's terms and was sold to Providence, where he played two seasons under Managers Tom Daly and Jack Dunn, and made such strides in his profession that last season he was unquestionably the star catcher of the Eastern league and a rich plum for which several major league clubs contended, New York carrying off the prize.

In Henry Mathewson, Christy's brother, Manager McGraw of the New York Nationals believes he has a youngster who will make good in the major league arena. "Matty" has recommended his "kid" brother so highly that McGraw feels confident Henry will develop into a star, although he does not look for good results this season.

Matty unhesitatingly says his brother will make good. "He now has as much speed as I had when I broke into the game," says Christy, "and he has control and a splendid assortment of curves. All he wants is experience, and with that I am sure he will develop into a star."

This "kid," as Matty calls his brother, is nineteen years old, is six feet tall and weighs 185 pounds. For the last two years he has been pitching on semi-professional teams in Lewisburg and Scranton, Pa., with good results.

Are You Trying to Walk Up Stairs of Sand?

Climbing sand stairs is an occupation which will keep you busy—but you won't ARRIVE anywhere!

"Running" a store, or a business enterprise, without advertising will keep you busy—but you won't ARRIVE anywhere!

"Sand-stair" methods of advertising may be pretty to look at—but they won't bear your weight—they crumble at the first pressure.

When you are tired of illusions and ready for realities, you will break yourself of the "sand-stairs" habit—and rely upon the good old-fashioned "way-up" in business—a campaign of newspaper advertising. "Sand-stairs" are related to real stairs as "other stairs" of advertising are related to newspaper advertising.

We shall be pleased to give detailed information on advertising at any time.
